The shaded area in the table above shows the Class's ranking based on the Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator. The risk/return indicator suggests the relationship between risk and potential returns when investing in the Fund. Please note that category 1 does not mean a risk free investment. Historical data, such as is used in calculating the synthetic indicator, may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund; the category might change in the future.

This fund is in risk category 3, since it invests in fixed income securities that are primarily non-investment grade which are more sensitive to interest rate changes and have greater credit risk than higher rated fixed income securities.

The following risks are materially relevant to the Fund but are not adequately captured by the synthetic indicator and may cause additional loss:

- Credit risk: The default of the issuer of a debt instrument held by the Fund.
- Interest Rate Risk - The risk that an investment's value will change due to a change in the absolute level of interest rates, in the spread between two rates, in the shape of the yield curve or in any other interest rate relationship.

- Derivative Risk – Derivative financial instruments are not in themselves investment instruments but rights whose valuation mainly derives from the price and the price fluctuations and expectations of the underlying instrument. Investments in derivatives are subject to general market risk, management risk, credit risk and liquidity risk.
- Market Risk - Adverse market conditions, sometimes in response to general economic or industry news, may cause prices of the Fund's holdings to fall as part of a broad market decline.
- Management Risk - Performance of the derivatives in the portfolio are dependent on the manager's skill in evaluating and managing derivative exposure.
- Credit Risk - Management must take into account the creditworthiness of each counterparty.
- Liquidity Risk - There is potential to have difficulty in buying or selling a security.
