The shaded area in the table above shows the Class's ranking based on the Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator. The risk/return indicator suggests the relationship between risk and potential returns when investing in the Fund. Please note that category 1 does not mean a risk free investment. Historical data, such as is used in calculating the synthetic indicator, may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund; the category might change in the future.

This Fund is in category 6, since it invests in companies listed in the equity markets that are in general characterized by high risk as well as the potential for high returns. Nevertheless, stock markets are subject to unpredictable fluctuations, which can lead to long-term depreciations.

The following risks are materially relevant to the Fund but are not adequately captured by the synthetic indicator and may cause additional loss:

- Energy Risk - Investment in energy securities may offer higher risk due to amongst other reasons: price fluctuation caused by real and perceived inflationary trends and political developments, cost assumed in complying with environmental safety regulations, demand of energy fuels, energy conservation, success of exploration projects, and tax and other governmental regulations.
- Derivative Risk – Derivative financial instruments are not in themselves investment instruments but rights whose valuation mainly derives from the price and the price fluctuations and expectations of the underlying instrument. Investments in derivatives are subject to general market risk, management risk, credit risk and liquidity risk.

- Market Risk - Adverse market conditions, sometimes in response to general economic or industry news, may cause prices of the Fund's holdings to fall as part of a broad market decline.
- Management Risk - Performance of the derivatives in the portfolio are dependent on the manager's skill in evaluating and managing derivative exposure.
- Credit Risk - Management must take into account the creditworthiness of each counterparty.
- Liquidity Risk - There is potential to have difficulty in buying or selling a security.
- Emerging Market Risk - Investments in emerging markets may offer higher risk due to amongst other reasons: political instability, lack of capital structure, poor information flow and the liquidity of the exchange.
- Equity Risk - stock markets are subject to unpredictable fluctuations, which can lead to long-term depreciations.
- Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect Program Risk - The Fund may, depending on the circumstances, be exposed to counterparty risks with respect to the executing broker, which may be affiliated with the sub-custodian. While certain aspects of the Stock Connect trading process are subject to Hong Kong law, the People's Republic of China ("PRC") rules applicable to share ownership will apply. In addition, transactions using Stock Connect are not subject to the Hong Kong investor compensation fund. Other risks associated with investments in PRC securities apply fully to Stock Connect securities.
